ARE WILD PEOPLE

NATIVE OF MINDANO IN PHILIPPINES ARE LIKE ANIMALS.

GIRLS MARRY YOUNG

Some Are Only Seven Years Old, Says D. H. Malone, Who Has Been There Several Years.

How would you like to live in a country among wild people who are so ignorant that they are not far removed from the wild animals of the forest? And also are so ignorant that they don't think anything about killing people and eat the meat of the wild hog, large snakes, large bugs and worms.

This is what Dorr H. Malone, a former Nodaway county boy, has been doing for the past several years in the Philippine islands. Mr. Malone is visiting in this county with his friends in the Wilcox community. He is first lieutenant of the Philippine constabulary and is stationed at Waloe, Agusan. He is also assistant governor and justice of the tribal ward of the Umayan district in the province of Agusan.

Mr. Malone expects to return back to the Philippines and will sail December 15. He will remain another week in this county.

In speaking to a representative of this paper, Mr. Malone said:

"Where I am stationed is about 650 miles from Manila, and 150 miles from the nearest postoffice—the most isolated station in our service. A letter from Maryville usually reaches me in from two to three months. I received one letter, which had been missent, that was more than six months old.

"My district is situated in the central part of the non-Christian province of Agusan, on the island of Mindanao, the second largest in the Philippines, and is inhabited by the wild tribe called Manobas. All of my soldiers are Filipinos; only the officers are American. I was the only American in the district, which is about seventy-five miles wide and 150 miles long. The country is very mountainous, covered with heavy, dense timber, and has a network of rivers and lakes just below the foothills. The climate is always warm, and the annual rainfall is from twelve to fifteen feet.

"These wild people in that country are so ignorant that they are not far removed from the wild animals of the forest. Their principal food is the sweet potato, which they grow in small fields on the steep slopes of the mountains, near the top; some rice, corn, tobacco, tomatoes, cucumbers and a small specie of melons are also planted in the same field. One family usually tends from two to five acres (the women do all the work).

"They eat the meat of the wild hog, the deer, the monkey, large snakes (boaconstrictors), large bugs, worms and grasshoppers. Native fruits grow everywhere, and of course furnish the substitute for meat when they have had bad luck fishing, hunting and catching bugs, etc.

"Killing people was formerly as common among these people as hunting ducks and rabbits is here. It was not uncommon for thirty or forty men to get together and go hunting for people, as we would get up a party to go deer hunting. The greatest number of people I ever heard of being killed in a single raid was twenty-five, but usually they did not kill more than from six to ten. They seldom kill children in their raids, but capture them and sell them to another tribe as slaves. If one tribe loses ten of their people in a raid by another tribe, then that tribe goes out and kills ten people of some other tribe. This is what they call "baos-baos" (striking a balance). The men usually have from one to three wives, but I have known of some to have as many as eight.

"The girls are usually married at the age of from 10 to 12 years, although I have known of one girl being married at the age of 7 and two at 9 years. The sentiments of love have nothing to do with their marriages. When a man sees a girl that he wants for a wife he just goes to her father and buys her, the same as we would buy a horse here. If the girl objects to the match she is tied and taken by force. The price paid for a girl is from $50 to $150.

"The work of bringing these people into towns and establishing government among them has been very difficult. In the beginning we would take a company of soldiers and go to their clearings up in the mountains, surround their houses and capture as many of them as possible. Then I would sit down and talk to them for several hours, explaining to them that they would not be killed, but that we only wanted them to come and live in towns where they could have the benefit of the public schools and come under the influence of civilization and have the protection of the government. After three or four of these visits they forgot their fear and in a few months are brought down from their houses up in the trees on the mountain tops, and settle in small towns of from 100 to 500. A school is established in each settlement or town, and a municipal government put in operation, with all wild people as the town officials."

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Public Services Will Be Held at First M. E. Church and Rev. S. D. Harkness Will Preach the Sermon.

The ministers of the city decided on the place for holding the union Thanksgiving day services, on Thanksgiving day, November 27, at its meeting Monday.

The services will be held at the First M. E. church, at 10:30 a. m., and the sermon will be preached by Rev. S. D. Harkness of the First Presbyterian church.

A program for the service will be given later.

HOG CHOLERA SERUM PLANT.

Company Known as the Standard Serum Company and is Composed of J. L. Felix and C. M. Cline.

There will be a hog cholera serum plant in this city, the company to be known as the Standard Serum company, and composed of James L. Felix and C. M. Cline, young men who are graduates in professional schools and are practicing here and at Stanberry. Their plant will be in the old Gann building on the state road, east of the Burlington tracks, and the building is now being remodeled. They will also have two acres of ground.

The treatment that will be sold is that known as the double treatment, which means the administration of cholera virus and then of the serum to tide the hogs over the effects of the virus and to render them immune from further contagion.

This necessitates the employment of young, smaller hogs to produce the virus, and of larger hogs to supply the immunizing blood. There are two processes of securing the latter product. One is by cutting off the hogs' tails an inch at a time and drawing off a quantity of blood each time, and the other is by the outright slaughter of the animals, once for all, and the taking of all the blood. The demand for the serum is so great just at this time that the latter method probably will be used until the plant can catch up with the orders.

It is expected that the plant will be in operation in about a week.

Maryville Pictures at St. Joseph.

The Maryville pictures taken by E. B. Steen, a representative of the Pathe company, during the fall festival, are being shown at the Crystal theater in St. Joseph this week in the Pathe series. There are four pictures, headed Maryville, Mo., Fall Festival, and they include two pictures of Bellows Bros.' fine Shorthorn cattle, one picture of Fred P. Robinson's Poland-China hogs, and one picture of J. F. Roelofson's Percheron stallion. These pictures will be shown in Maryville, November 15.

Many of the teachers of the schools in the city will attend the State Teachers' association meeting to be held in St. Louis on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Harrington and Hawkins will leave this evening, while Messrs. Richardson and Miller will leave on Wednesday evening. County Superintendent W. M. Oakerson will also leave on Wednesday evening to attend the meeting at St. Louis. Mr. Oakerson will receive much encouragement from the educators all over the state in attendance at this meeting for his candidacy as state superintendent of schools. While Mr. Oakerson has not as yet decided whether he will be a candidate, his many friends all over the state are busy at work doing all they can to get him in the race. So far, there is only one other candidate for the place, he being Howard A. Gass, who held the office of state superintendent four years ago and was defeated at the last election by Wm. P. Evans, now state superintendent.

Mr. Harrington will attend both the meeting of the Missouri Society of Teachers of Mathematics and Science and the State Teachers' association.

Mr. Harrington as president of the Missouri Society of Science and Mathematics and a member of their executive board will have charge of the meeting at St. Louis. Among the subjects for discussion will be "Should a course in general science—that is, a course of one year in the different sciences—be offered to the high school student, instead of having them all take the separate sciences?"

In the mathematics section the question of "The Good and Bad Tendencies in High School Mathematics" will be discussed from the standpoint of the various subjects in mathematics.

Mr. Harrington joined the Science and Mathematics society in 1907, and at different times since has been the secretary of both the science and mathematics sections, and is now the president of the joint organization. He became a member of the State Teachers' association in 1910, and was in 1911 the chairman of the division on secondary schools.

C. E. Wells, the Normal school librarian, also expects to attend the State Teachers' association.

ON WAY TO NORWAY.

Miss Lena Brown Leaves for New York Tuesday evening and Will Sail Friday for Her Native Land.

Miss Lena Brown, stenographer for the law firm of Shinabargar, Blagg & Ellison, will sail from New York Friday for her home in Stavanger, Norway, where she has been called by the illness of her mother, who has expressed a desire to see her for many weeks.

Miss Brown went to St. Joseph Tuesday morning and will spend the day with friends, leaving for New York Tuesday evening. Miss Brown's sister, who is the cashier at the Robidoux, went to Norway early in the summer on account of their mother's illness, and is there now. The mother has continued to grow weaker and has daily asked if Lena was not coming. A letter a few days ago said that it was best for her to come, and a cablegram on Monday said if she wished to see her mother before her death she must come at once.

Miss Anna Brown of Jefferson City, who is secretary to Judge Brown of the supreme court, has lately returned from a visit to her mother in Norway and will not go at this time.

Miss Lena Brown has been in America eighteen or twenty years and was stenographer for Judge Brown fourteen years. She gave her position to her sister, who came here and was made ready for a position, and Miss Brown came to Maryville two years ago to become stenographer for the Maryville law firm. She has made a trip every five years, and had just returned from Norway when she came to Maryville. If she should receive word at New York City that her mother is dead she will not pursue her journey further. If no word comes she will know there is hope of seeing her.

It will require constant travel for two weeks to reach Norway. On reaching Liverpool Miss Brown will go directly across England to Hull, another seaport, and from there she will cross the English channel, then over the North sea home.

Judge Brown had business in New York City a few years ago, and while there concluded to go to Narway and visit the parents of the Brown sisters, who then lived in his home. He took an interpreter with him and had the most delightful time of his life, he said, in getting acquainted with the father, mother and several brothers and sisters, and was most affectionately treated by them.

ABOUT COMPLETED

WATER WILL BE IN NEW WATER TOWER THE LAST OF WEEK.

TOP BEING PUT ON NOW

Is More Substantial and Hold More Water Than Old Tower—Work at Water Plant at Standstill.

The water tower is about completed and water will be in the tower the last of this week. The top was being put on the tower Monday and Tuesday and will be finished in the next few days. Then the pipes will be connected up. The new standpipe will hold 150,000 gallons and the matter of pressure will be solved.

The tower is a structural steel tower with a big tank on top. The structure is about as high as the old tower, but is much more stable and holds more water than the old brick tower.

The work at the city water plant is at a standstill now on account of the delay in the shipment of the filters and pumps. Both new boilers are installed and the addition to the power house and the new filter house are completed. The filters and pumps were ordered a few months ago. After they arrive it will take about two weeks to install them.

There has been many leaks around the city and many have thought that it was in the mains. However, it is in the service pipes, connected from the mains to the pipes in the houses and buildings. The leaks are due to the service pipes being worn out and some of them when taken out are so thin that City Engineer Flynt says you can run a lead pencil through it.

All of the improvement work at the plant will be completed soon and then Maryville will have an up-to-date water plant. The board will take up the work next spring of drilling for wells and also of putting in more mains in places where there are the most customers.

WHAT A CITY MANAGER DOES.

Clarinda, Ia., Finds an Escape From Political Administration.

Some months ago the city of Clarinda, Ia., adopted a plan for administering city affairs under the direct supervision of a single individual called the city manager.

The Iowa law provides for a city council composed of a mayor and one councilman from each ward of the city, and two councilmen at large. As a first step in concentration the number of wards of this little city of about four thousand inhabitants was reduced to two, thus limiting the number of councilmen to four. At the same time the size of the council committees was reduced from three members to one, and they only act as advisers to the city manager. The next step was to appoint one man outside the council to act as city manager. His duties were to be those of the former city clerk, the street commissioner, the water commissioner, the sewer superintendent, and the custodian of the cemetery.

Such a man was found in the person of T. A. Wilson, a resident of Clarinda, young, industrious, energetic, with previous business experience. His office is always open to the public and all complaints received by him are registered and promptly investigated.

It has been observed that the city manager is respected by the city employees, and that they know he is liable to inspect them and their work at any moment. Several changes have been made in employees where it was evident that they were not doing their best. As a result a force of trustworthy men has been obtained.

The city employees are used interchangeably in all departments, whereas heretofore one set of employees has worked on one class of work only. Now a few men of tested worth do the work of all departments, and they are steadily employed, which is to the advantage of the city and the individual.

At the present writing the affairs of the city are being efficiently managed—far better than under the old system as observed in other cities of its class. The several miles of street pavements and dirt roads are in far better condition than they are to be found in other cities even larger than Clarinda.

A systematic method of keeping account of the expenses of the different departments is being worked out. The city manager carefully audits all claims against the city. He is in position to do this carefully, and to the great advantage of the city over the old method where it was often difficult to trace the origin of a claim. Under the present system, practically all claims against the city are incurred on the order of the city manager, hence he is familiar with them.

Apparently the city manager plan can be operated at less cost to the city than the commission form of government with salaried commissioners. In a small city, the salaries of commissioners are so small that they cannot afford to give their whole time to the work of the city, and if not, then it is better not to have the commissioners on a salary.

The city manager of Clarinda receives a salary of $1,500 a year, and if he is retained for a few years he will, by reason of his experience in municipal work, be worth considerable more money to his city.

On the whole the city manager plan seems to be working well in this little city. Doubtless if there were men especially fitted for this kind of work, and there are a good many, they would be worth much to the smaller towns, at least, and, in the opinion of the writer, to the larger ones as well.

It is to be hoped that the city manager plan will be given long enough trial to prove its worth, and that it will not fall to the caprice of the ever changing public mind before that time. —Engineering News.

A Short List of Human Bores.

In the November Woman's Home Companion appears an article entitled "Little Courtesies of Social Life," in the course of which the author mentions, as follows, a few people who make nuisances of themselves:

"Other discourtesies you meet in private as well as in public. Do we not all know the man or woman who takes up a book or paper and reads while others in the circle are talking? Do we not meet every day the persons who discuss together people and places and things they know and we don't? Does any one of us escape the trial of the interrupter who breaks in upon our best story with an irrelevant remark, or who snaps our most telling argument in two to interject some comment, humorous or otherwise? Or of the chronic story teller who can hardly wait for the conclusion of our anecdote because of his eagerness to cap it with one he believes better? We have all met just such people who have done these very things, thoughtlessly, no doubt, but not the less unpleasant for that reason.

"These and many others are always with us, and all are guilty of discourtesy and genuine bad breeding. The only way to eliminate them and their breaches of manners is by individual effort with our families, our friends—and ourselves."

A marriage license was issued Monday at St. Joseph to Floyd S. Vickery of Arkoe and Agatha Igo of Warren, Ia.

"The Vision of Joy."

In looking over some books in one of our bookstores Tuesday morning we saw in a given list "The Vision of Joy," the latest book by Alexander Corkey. This author, it will be remembered, gave answer to "The Calling of Dan Matthews," by Harold Bell Wright, in "The Victory of Allen Rutledge," and made himself a name by it. He now presents "The Vision of Joy" as the sequel of "The Victory of Allen Rutledge."

Alexander Corkey is the young Irish Presbyterian preacher who appeared in a trial sermon at the First Presbyterian church in Maryville just before a call was extended to Rev. Dr. Charles P. Luce to become its pastor. He was then pastor at Wayne, Neb., and later belonged to the presbytery in Nebraska with Rev. S. D. Harkness, the present pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Maryville. Rev. Harkness knew Rev. Corkey and says he was a fine preacher and successful pastor. He refused calls to several large churches, for the reason, Rev. Harkness believes, that he would have more time to devote to his book writing by holding a small pastorate. Alexander Corkey was mostly educated in Ireland and comes of a remarkable Irish family. His father and seven brothers are Presbyterian preachers, and his two sisters are missionaries under the Presbyterian board in the foreign field. He has another book out, "The Testing Fire." The day Mr. Corkey preached in Maryville the rain fell in torrents, but the few who heard him preach felt more than repaid for the effort.

By the way, the best selling books for the month of October, in the order of preferment, were:

"The Woman Thou Gavest Me," by Hall Caine.

"Laddie," by Gene Stratton Porter.

Was McDowell Day for Musicians.

The music department of the Twentieth Century club met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles S. Jackson. It was "McDowell Day," and those who were not present missed one of the finest programs of the year. So beautifully were the numbers rendered that one wished that each might have been repeated. Mrs. Berney Harris read a very interesting sketch of the life of McDowell. He was a great lover of nature, and into his compositions he wove, with infinite delicacy and charm, the beautiful. Sometimes it was the beauty of a flower, so sweet and tender; sometimes the magic grandeur and force of the ocean waves. So sensitive were his moods that no two compositions seem to have the same feeling. Mrs. Ferdinand Townsend's selections were from the "Woodland Sketches"—"To a Wild Rose," "To a Water Lily' 'and "By a Meadow Brook." Miss May Corwin sang "Thy Beaming Eyes" and "A Maid Sings Light." Miss Mae Orear gave "To the Sea," from Sea Pieces. These are not so well known as his Woodland Sketches, but were the composer's favorite pieces. Mrs. Jackson interpreted McDowell's "Will o' the Wisp," from Woodland Sketches," and the other number she gave was "Joy to Autumn," from "New England Idyls." Mrs. H. L. Raines substituted for a McDowell vocal number Kate Vannah's beautiful "Good-bye, Sweet Day." In the symposium, Mrs. T. L. Wilderman read an interesting article on McDowell's views on musical students studying abroad. He favored American students studying at home, for he preferred American methods of instruction as more attention is paid each student so that individuality of expression is developed, while abroad each one is put through the same grind, no matter what his tastes may be.

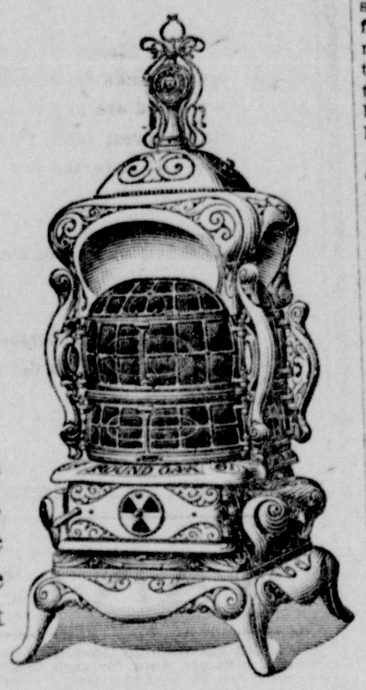
The above cuts need no words of explanation. Every piece of this Monarch Range is either malleable or wrought iron and will neither crack, break or warp. Of course, the price of the Monarch is more than the price of the ordinary bolted, cast top, steel range. When it comes to the point of durability the Monarch will last most a lifetime, and in repairs alone will almost save the difference in the price between the common steel range and the Monarch Malleable.

Call and let us show you the merits of our line of Ranges and Heaters, which is very complete at this time.



Round Oak Base Heater is the best in its line because of its large base flues and large cold air circulating flue.

The Round Oak is not a cheap stove in its first cost, but when looked at from the point of durability they are the cheapest stove to be had. Let us show you their merits.

HUERTA MUST RESIGN AT ONCE

Washington Sends Ultimatum to Mexican Provisional Head.

NO REPLY HAS YET BEEN MADE

Believed in Capital He Will Hold Fast to Presidency—Reins of Government Not to Be Left to Any of His Coterie.

Mexico City, Nov. 4.—President Huerta must resign the presidency of Mexico without loss of time and must not leave as his successor General Aurelliano Blanquet, his minister of war, or any other member of his official family or of the unofficial coterie whom he might be expected to control.

This ultimatum from Washington was conveyed to President Huerta through his private secretary, Senor Rabago, by Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires, acting under instructions from the state department. President Huerta has returned no answer.

Those who learned of the Washington note regard General Huerta's position as one in which he will be forced to give one of two answers—refusal point blank to comply with the demand, possibly going so far as to hand the diplomatic representative his passports, or the elimination of himself officially.

Those most intimate with the president insist that the latter course will not be taken for many reasons, chief among which is that such action would be tantamount to submission to the rebels. Official Mexico is no longer in doubt that the Washington administration favors the rebel cause and is convinced that this is means adopted by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan to assist General Carranza to win.

General Huerta summoned to the national palace the diplomatic corps, but for what purpose was not revealed.

PRANAITES ON STAND

Russian Priest's Charges Against Jews Indefinite.

Kiev, Nov. 4.—"Vaudeville" is the term used by a Kiev newspaper in referring to the testimony of Father Pranaitos, the priest of Turkestan, at the trial of Mendel Beilis for the murder of the boy, Andrew Yushinsky. It adds that the priest has proved a "broken reed" for the prosecution.

Judge Boldirlew, the president of the court room, became impatient when Father Pranaites continually replied "I don't know" to questions and was unable even to indicate the texts of the Talmud and the bible on which he based his denunciation of the Jews. The judge sharply demanded whether the witness could hear the questions put to him.

The priest did not confine his charges to any particular sect of fanatics, but declared that all Jews were concerned in ritual observances.

After making an allusion to the significance of the number of wounds and to the method of killing employed, the priest said the object of ritual crimes was to hasten the arrival of the Messiah.

When asked to produce the book containing description of those practices, the priest replied that it was in St. Petersburg.

Cut Out Meat, Advise Hotel Men.

INDIANAPOLIS CARS STILL IDLE

No Attempt Made by Traction Company to Resume Service.

CHAUFFEUR IS FATALLY SHOT.

Four Policemen Refuse to Mount Platforms to Protect Nonunion Men From Strikers—Appointment of Receiver Asked—Twelve Arrests Made.

Indianapolis, Nov. 4.—The third day of the strike of employees of the traction company ended with no attempt to move the cars, which have stood idle in the barns since last week. Charges that partisan politics caused the police to fail to give the traction company sufficient protection to run its cars were made by candidates for office at today's election, while an effort of Sheriff Portteus, a Democrat, to swear in 200 citizens as deputies resulted in the charge being made that he had summoned the men chiefly to keep active Republicans from working at the polls.

The strike situation was further complicated when a suit for the annulment and forfeiture of the traction company's franchise and the appointment of a receiver for the company was filed in the circuit court. The suit was filed by Attorney Albert C. Pearson, acting as a taxpayer, and alleges that the company by its failure to operate cars for the last three days has violated its franchise contract with the city. The summons in the suit was made returnable Nov. 18.

After a day in which numerous minor riots were reported, Thomas Carlton, a chauffeur, was shot and fatally wounded while watching a crowd of sympathizers making an attack on the Louisiana car barns, where strike breakers are housed.

Bruised by Missiles.

President Todd of the traction company, Superintendent J. J. Mahoney and Martin Hyland, superintendent of police, were bruised by missiles near the Tombs prison, and later, Mahoney was attacked while passing the state house and forced to take refuge in a street car to escape a shower of bricks, and until mounted police cleared the state house lawn.

Four policemen refused to mount the car platforms to protect nonunion men. President Todd announced no effort would be made to move cars until the nonunion men were assured of ample protection.

Twelve arrests were made from the crowds that flocked about the cars. The majority of the prisoners were charged with inciting to riot and throwing stones.

SAYS TRANSLATION IS WRONG

World Peace Promoter Asserts Christ Is Misquoted.

St. Louis, Nov. 4.—R. M. Langdon-Davies of London, who represents the Garton foundation for the promotion of peace, and who is touring America under the auspices of the American Association for International Conciliation, told the members of the St. Louis City club that the famous utterance of Jesus, "I came not to bring peace, but the sword," was a wrong translation.

He repeated the Greek words of the original text, then said they should be translated:

"I came not to bring peace, but division."

The wrong translation, he said, often had been quoted approvingly by advocates of militarism.

Trinidad, Colo., Nov. 4.—Final preparations were made by Adjutant General Chase for another expedition to Ludlow, for the purpose of seizing the arms and ammunition of the strikers of the Ludlow tent colony. At a conference at that place with John R. Twenty-six weapons, including twenty rifles, were turned over to General Chase by Lawson.

Printed on the front of every official time table which goes to Wabash employes are two large circles, "SAFETY ALWAYS." Printed on the back of every official time table are these words: "SAFETY should be the first consideration of every employe." It is a constant admonition to every Wabash trainman, for the protection of every Wabash traveler. Beginning with the human factor, the Wabash surrounds its travelers with every mechanical safeguard known to modern railroadism: Steel equipment; automatic electric block signals; miles of double track; heavy rails and substantial roadbed; telephone dispatching, etc.

ARE WILD PEOPLE

NATIVE OF MINDANO IN PHILIPPINES ARE LIKE ANIMALS.

GIRLS MARRY YOUNG

Some Are Only Seven Years Old, Says D. H. Malone, Who Has Been There Several Years.

How would you like to live in a country among wild people who are so ignorant that they are not far removed from the wild animals of the forest? And also are so ignorant that they don't think anything about killing people and eat the meat of the wild hog, large snakes, large bugs and worms.

This is what Dorr H. Malone, a former Nodaway county boy, has been doing for the past several years in the Philippine islands. Mr. Malone is visiting in this county with his friends in the Wilcox community. He is first lieutenant of the Philippine constabulary and is stationed at Waloe, Agusan. He is also assistant governor and justice of the tribal ward of the Umayan district in the province of Agusan.

Mr. Malone expects to return back to the Philippines and will sail December 15. He will remain another week in this county.

In speaking to a representative of this paper, Mr. Malone said:

"Where I am stationed is about 650 miles from Manila, and 150 miles from the nearest postoffice—the most isolated station in our service. A letter from Maryville usually reaches me in from two to three months. I received one letter, which had been missent, that was more than six months old.

"My district is situated in the central part of the non-Christian province of Agusan, on the island of Mindanao, the second largest in the Philippines, and is inhabited by the wild tribe called Manobas. All of my soldiers are Filipinos; only the officers are American. I was the only American in the district, which is about seventy-five miles wide and 150 miles long. The country is very mountainous, covered with heavy, dense timber, and has a network of rivers and lakes just below the foothills. The climate is always warm, and the annual rainfall is from twelve to fifteen feet.

"These wild people in that country are so ignorant that they are not far removed from the wild animals of the forest. Their principal food is the sweet potato, which they grow in small fields on the steep slopes of the mountains, near the top; some rice, corn, tobacco, tomatoes, cucumbers and a small specie of melons are also planted in the same field. One family usually tends from two to five acres (the women do all the work).

"They eat the meat of the wild hog, the deer, the monkey, large snakes (boaconstrictors), large bugs, worms and grasshoppers. Native fruits grow everywhere, and of course furnish the substitute for meat when they have had bad luck fishing, hunting and catching bugs, etc.

"Killing people was formerly as common among these people as hunting ducks and rabbits is here. It was not uncommon for thirty or forty men to get together and go hunting for people, as we would get up a party to go deer hunting. The greatest number of people I ever heard of being killed in a single raid was twenty-five, but usually they did not kill more than from six to ten. They seldom kill children in their raids, but capture them and sell them to another tribe as slaves. If one tribe loses ten of their people in a raid by another tribe, then that tribe goes out and kills ten people of some other tribe. This is what they call "baos-baos" (striking a balance). The men usually have from one to three wives, but I have known of some to have as many as eight.

"The girls are usually married at the age of from 10 to 12 years, although I have known of one girl being married at the age of 7 and two at 9 years. The sentiments of love have nothing to do with their marriages. When a man sees a girl that he wants for a wife he just goes to her father and buys her, the same as we would buy a horse here. If the girl objects to the match she is tied and taken by force. The price paid for a girl is from $50 to $150.

"The work of bringing these people into towns and establishing government among them has been very difficult. In the beginning we would take a company of soldiers and go to their clearings up in the mountains, surround their houses and capture as many of them as possible. Then I would sit down and talk to them for several hours, explaining to them that they would not be killed, but that we only wanted them to come and live in towns where they could have the benefit of the public schools and come under the influence of civilization and have the protection of the government. After three or four of these visits they forgot their fear and in a few months are brought down from their houses up in the trees on the mountain tops, and settle in small towns of from 100 to 500. A school is established in each settlement or town, and a municipal government put in operation, with all wild people as the town officials."

Friday evening, at the Christian church, subject, "The Immigrant;" leader, Rev. Samuel D. Harkness of the Presbyterian church.

The church at which each service will be held will furnish special music. Everybody is cordially invited.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Public Services Will Be Held at First M. E. Church and Rev. S. D. Harkness Will Preach the Sermon.

The ministers of the city decided on the place for holding the union Thanksgiving day services, on Thanksgiving day, November 27, at its meeting Monday.

The services will be held at the First M. E. church, at 10:30 a. m., and the sermon will be preached by Rev. S. D. Harkness of the First Presbyterian church.

A program for the service will be given later.

HOG CHOLERA SERUM PLANT.

Company Known as the Standard Serum Company and is Composed of J. L. Felix and C. M. Cline.

There will be a hog cholera serum plant in this city, the company to be known as the Standard Serum company, and composed of James L. Felix and C. M. Cline, young men who are graduates in professional schools and are practicing here and at Stanberry. Their plant will be in the old Gann building on the state road, east of the Burlington tracks, and the building is now being remodeled. They will also have two acres of ground.

The treatment that will be sold is that known as the double treatment, which means the administration of cholera virus and then of the serum to tide the hogs over the effects of the virus and to render them immune from further contagion.

This necessitates the employment of young, smaller hogs to produce the virus, and of larger hogs to supply the immunizing blood. There are two processes of securing the latter product. One is by cutting off the hogs' tails an inch at a time and drawing off a quantity of blood each time, and the other is by the outright slaughter of the animals, once for all, and the taking of all the blood. The demand for the serum is so great just at this time that the latter method probably will be used until the plant can catch up with the orders.

It is expected that the plant will be in operation in about a week.

Maryville Pictures at St. Joseph.

The Maryville pictures taken by E. B. Steen, a representative of the Pathe company, during the fall festival, are being shown at the Crystal theater in St. Joseph this week in the Pathe series. There are four pictures, headed Maryville, Mo., Fall Festival, and they include two pictures of Bellows Bros.' fine Shorthorn cattle, one picture of Fred P. Robinson's Poland-China hogs, and one picture of J. F. Roelofson's Percheron stallion. These pictures will be shown in Maryville, November 15.

TO STATE MEETING

MANY TEACHERS FROM NORMAL AND CITY SCHOOL TO GO.

BOOM FOR OAKERSON

Will Be Urged to Run for State Superintendent—Richardson is on Program and So is Harrington.

Many of the teachers of the schools in the city will attend the State Teachers' association meeting to be held in St. Louis on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The high school will be represented by Superintendent W. M. Westbrook, who will leave this evening.

From the Normal, President Ira Richardson, Prof. C. A. Hawkins, Prof. Harry Miller and Prof. E. L. Harrington will attend the meeting. Messrs. Harrington and Hawkins will leave this evening, while Messrs. Richardson and Miller will leave on Wednesday evening. Mr. Richardson is on the program for an address on "The Problem of the Intermediate School; How It Will Take Care of Both Those Who Go to the High School and Those Who Do Not."

Mr. Hawkins is a member of the executive committee of the association.

County Superintendent W. M. Oakerson will also leave on Wednesday evening to attend the meeting at St. Louis. Mr. Oakerson will receive much encouragement from the educators all over the state in attendance at this meeting for his candidacy as state superintendent of schools. While Mr. Oakerson has not as yet decided whether he will be a candidate, his many friends all over the state are busy at work doing all they can to get him in the race. So far, there is only one other candidate for the place, he being Howard A. Gass, who held the office of state superintendent four years ago and was defeated at the last election by Wm. P. Evans, now state superintendent.

Mr. Harrington will attend both the meeting of the Missouri Society of Teachers of Mathematics and Science and the State Teachers' association.

Mr. Harrington as president of the Missouri Society of Science and Mathematics and a member of their executive board will have charge of the meeting at St. Louis. Among the subjects for discussion will be "Should a course in general science—that is, a course of one year in the different sciences—be offered to the high school student, instead of having them all take the separate sciences?"

In the mathematics section the question of "The Good and Bad Tendencies in High School Mathematics" will be discussed from the standpoint of the various subjects in mathematics.

Mr. Harrington joined the Science and Mathematics society in 1907, and at different times since has been the secretary of both the science and mathematics sections, and is now the president of the joint organization. He became a member of the State Teachers' association in 1910, and was in 1911 the chairman of the division on secondary schools.

C. E. Wells, the Normal school librarian, also expects to attend the State Teachers' association.

ON WAY TO NORWAY.

Miss Lena Brown Leaves for New York Tuesday evening and Will Sail Friday for Her Native Land.

Miss Lena Brown, stenographer for the law firm of Shinabargar, Blagg & Ellison, will sail from New York Friday for her home in Stavanger, Norway, where she has been called by the illness of her mother, who has expressed a desire to see her for many weeks.

Miss Brown went to St. Joseph Tuesday morning and will spend the day with friends, leaving for New York Tuesday evening. Miss Brown's sister, who is the cashier at the Robidoux, went to Norway early in the summer on account of their mother's illness, and is there now. The mother has continued to grow weaker and has daily asked if Lena was not coming. A letter a few days ago said that it was best for her to come, and a cablegram on Monday said if she wished to see her mother before her death she must come at once.

Miss Anna Brown of Jefferson City, who is secretary to Judge Brown of the supreme court, has lately returned from a visit to her mother in Norway and will not go at this time.

Miss Lena Brown has been in America eighteen or twenty years and was stenographer for Judge Brown fourteen years. She gave her position to her sister, who came here and was made ready for a position, and Miss Brown came to Maryville two years ago to become stenographer for the Maryville law firm. She has made a trip every five years, and had just returned from Norway when she came to Maryville. If she should receive word at New York City that her mother is dead she will not pursue her journey further. If no word comes she will know there is hope of seeing her.

It will require constant travel for two weeks to reach Norway. On reaching Liverpool Miss Brown will go directly across England to Hull, another seaport, and from there she will cross the English channel, then over the North sea home.

Judge Brown had business in New York City a few years ago, and while there concluded to go to Narway and visit the parents of the Brown sisters, who then lived in his home. He took an interpreter with him and had the most delightful time of his life, he said, in getting acquainted with the father, mother and several brothers and sisters, and was most affectionately treated by them.

ABOUT COMPLETED

WATER WILL BE IN NEW WATER TOWER THE LAST OF WEEK.

TOP BEING PUT ON NOW

Is More Substantial and Hold More Water Than Old Tower—Work at Water Plant at Standstill.

The water tower is about completed and water will be in the tower the last of this week. The top was being put on the tower Monday and Tuesday and will be finished in the next few days. Then the pipes will be connected up. The new standpipe will hold 150,000 gallons and the matter of pressure will be solved.

The tower is a structural steel tower with a big tank on top. The structure is about as high as the old tower, but is much more stable and holds more water than the old brick tower.

The work at the city water plant is at a standstill now on account of the delay in the shipment of the filters and pumps. Both new boilers are installed and the addition to the power house and the new filter house are completed. The filters and pumps were ordered a few months ago. After they arrive it will take about two weeks to install them.

There has been many leaks around the city and many have thought that it was in the mains. However, it is in the service pipes, connected from the mains to the pipes in the houses and buildings. The leaks are due to the service pipes being worn out and some of them when taken out are so thin that City Engineer Flynt says you can run a lead pencil through it.

All of the improvement work at the plant will be completed soon and then Maryville will have an up-to-date water plant. The board will take up the work next spring of drilling for wells and also of putting in more mains in places where there are the most customers.

WHAT A CITY MANAGER DOES.

Clarinda, Ia., Finds an Escape From Political Administration.

The Iowa law provides for a city council composed of a mayor and one councilman from each ward of the city, and two councilmen at large. As a first step in concentration the number of wards of this little city of about four thousand inhabitants was reduced to two, thus limiting the number of councilmen to four. At the same time the size of the council committees was reduced from three members to one, and they only act as advisers to the city manager. The next step was to appoint one man outside the council to act as city manager. His duties were to be those of the former city clerk, the street commissioner, the water commissioner, the sewer superintendent, and the custodian of the cemetery.

Such a man was found in the person of T. A. Wilson, a resident of Clarinda, young, industrious, energetic, with previous business experience. His office is always open to the public and all complaints received by him are registered and promptly investigated.

It has been observed that the city manager is respected by the city employees, and that they know he is liable to inspect them and their work at any moment. Several changes have been made in employees where it was evident that they were not doing their best. As a result a force of trustworthy men has been obtained.

The city employees are used interchangeably in all departments, whereas heretofore one set of employees has worked on one class of work only. Now a few men of tested worth do the work of all departments, and they are steadily employed, which is to the advantage of the city and the individual.

At the present writing the affairs of the city are being efficiently managed—far better than under the old system as observed in other cities of its class. The several miles of street pavements and dirt roads are in far better condition than they are to be found in other cities even larger than Clarinda.

A systematic method of keeping account of the expenses of the different departments is being worked out. The city manager carefully audits all claims against the city. He is in position to do this carefully, and to the great advantage of the city over the old method where it was often difficult to trace the origin of a claim. Under the present system, practically all claims against the city are incurred on the order of the city manager, hence he is familiar with them.

Apparently the city manager plan can be operated at less cost to the city than the commission form of government with salaried commissioners. In a small city, the salaries of commissioners are so small that they cannot afford to give their whole time to the work of the city, and if not, then it is better not to have the commissioners on a salary.

The city manager of Clarinda receives a salary of $1,500 a year, and if he is retained for a few years he will, by reason of his experience in municipal work, be worth considerable more money to his city.

On the whole the city manager plan seems to be working well in this little city. Doubtless if there were men especially fitted for this kind of work, and there are a good many, they would be worth much to the smaller towns, at least, and, in the opinion of the writer, to the larger ones as well.

It is to be hoped that the city manager plan will be given long enough trial to prove its worth, and that it will not fall to the caprice of the ever changing public mind before that time. —Engineering News.

A Short List of Human Bores.

In the November Woman's Home Companion appears an article entitled "Little Courtesies of Social Life," in the course of which the author mentions, as follows, a few people who make nuisances of themselves:

"Other discourtesies you meet in private as well as in public. Do we not all know the man or woman who takes up a book or paper and reads while others in the circle are talking? Do we not meet every day the persons who discuss together people and places and things they know and we don't? Does any one of us escape the trial of the interrupter who breaks in upon our best story with an irrelevant remark, or who snaps our most telling argument in two to interject some comment, humorous or otherwise? Or of the chronic story teller who can hardly wait for the conclusion of our anecdote because of his eagerness to cap it with one he believes better? We have all met just such people who have done these very things, thoughtlessly, no doubt, but not the less unpleasant for that reason.

"These and many others are always with us, and all are guilty of discourtesy and genuine bad breeding. The only way to eliminate them and their breaches of manners is by individual effort with our families, our friends—and ourselves."

A marriage license was issued Monday at St. Joseph to Floyd S. Vickery of Arkoe and Agatha Igo of Warren, Ia.

"The Vision of Joy."

In looking over some books in one of our bookstores Tuesday morning we saw in a given list "The Vision of Joy," the latest book by Alexander Corkey. This author, it will be remembered, gave answer to "The Calling of Dan Matthews," by Harold Bell Wright, in "The Victory of Allen Rutledge," and made himself a name by it. He now presents "The Vision of Joy" as the sequel of "The Victory of Allen Rutledge."

Alexander Corkey is the young Irish Presbyterian preacher who appeared in a trial sermon at the First Presbyterian church in Maryville just before a call was extended to Rev. Dr. Charles P. Luce to become its pastor. He was then pastor at Wayne, Neb., and later belonged to the presbytery in Nebraska with Rev. S. D. Harkness, the present pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Maryville. Rev. Harkness knew Rev. Corkey and says he was a fine preacher and successful pastor. He refused calls to several large churches, for the reason, Rev. Harkness believes, that he would have more time to devote to his book writing by holding a small pastorate. Alexander Corkey was mostly educated in Ireland and comes of a remarkable Irish family. His father and seven brothers are Presbyterian preachers, and his two sisters are missionaries under the Presbyterian board in the foreign field. He has another book out, "The Testing Fire." The day Mr. Corkey preached in Maryville the rain fell in torrents, but the few who heard him preach felt more than repaid for the effort.

Was McDowell Day for Musicians.

The music department of the Twentieth Century club met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles S. Jackson. It was "McDowell Day," and those who were not present missed one of the finest programs of the year. So beautifully were the numbers rendered that one wished that each might have been repeated. Mrs. Berney Harris read a very interesting sketch of the life of McDowell. He was a great lover of nature, and into his compositions he wove, with infinite delicacy and charm, the beautiful. Sometimes it was the beauty of a flower, so sweet and tender; sometimes the magic grandeur and force of the ocean waves. So sensitive were his moods that no two compositions seem to have the same feeling. Mrs. Ferdinand Townsend's selections were from the "Woodland Sketches"—"To a Wild Rose," "To a Water Lily" and "By a Meadow Brook." Miss May Corwin sang "Thy Beaming Eyes" and "A Maid Sings Light." Miss Mae Orear gave "To the Sea," from Sea Pieces. These are not so well known as his Woodland Sketches, but were the composer's favorite pieces. Mrs. Jackson interpreted McDowell's "Will o' the Wisp," from Woodland Sketches," and the other number she gave was "Joy to Autumn," from "New England Idyls." Mrs. H. L. Raines substituted for a McDowell vocal number Kate Vannah's beautiful "Good-bye, Sweet Day." In the symposium, Mrs. T. L. Wilderman read an interesting article on McDowell's views on musical students studying abroad. He favored American students studying at home, for he preferred American methods of instruction as more attention is paid each student so that individuality of expression is developed, while abroad each one is put through the same grind, no matter what his tastes may be.

Mrs. W. A. Whitney was called to Kansas City Monday evening by the illness of her father.

HUERTA MUST RESIGN AT ONCE

Washington Sends Ultimatum to Mexican Provisional Head.

NO REPLY HAS YET BEEN MADE

Believed in Capital He Will Hold Fast to Presidency—Reins of Government Not to Be Left to Any of His Coterie.

Mexico City, Nov. 4.—President Huerta must resign the presidency of Mexico without loss of time and must not leave as his successor General Aurelliano Blanquet, his minister of war, or any other member of his official family or of the unofficial coterie whom he might be expected to control.

This ultimatum from Washington was conveyed to President Huerta through his private secretary, Senor Rabago, by Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires, acting under instructions from the state department. President Huerta has returned no answer.

Those who learned of the Washington note regard General Huerta's position as one in which he will be forced to give one of two answers—refusal point blank to comply with the demand, possibly going so far as to hand the diplomatic representative his passports, or the elimination of himself officially.

Those most intimate with the president insist that the latter course will not be taken for many reasons, chief among which is that such action would be tantamount to submission to the rebels. Official Mexico is no longer in doubt that the Washington administration favors the rebel cause and is convinced that this is means adopted by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan to assist General Carranza to win.

General Huerta summoned to the national palace the diplomatic corps, but for what purpose was not revealed.

PRANAITES ON STAND

Russian Priest's Charges Against Jews Indefinite.

Kiev, Nov. 4.—"Vaudeville" is the term used by a Kiev newspaper in referring to the testimony of Father Pranaitos, the priest of Turkestan, at the trial of Mendel Beilis for the murder of the boy, Andrew Yushinsky. It adds that the priest has proved a "broken reed" for the prosecution.

Judge Boldirlew, the president of the court room, became impatient when Father Pranaites continually replied "I don't know" to questions and was unable even to indicate the texts of the Talmud and the bible on which he based his denunciation of the Jews. The judge sharply demanded whether the witness could hear the questions put to him.

The priest did not confine his charges to any particular sect of fanatics, but declared that all Jews were concerned in ritual observances.

After making an allusion to the significance of the number of wounds and to the method of killing employed, the priest said the object of ritual crimes was to hasten the arrival of the Messiah.

When asked to produce the book containing description of those practices, the priest replied that it was in St. Petersburg.

LaCrosse, Wis., Nov. 4.—Passenger train No 58 on the Burlington railroad was wrecked near Genoa, Wis., when the locomotive struck a boulder half the size of a boxcar, which had been dislodged by recent rains and rolled down the bluff to the track. Engineer James M. Pratt was possibly fatally injured.

INDIANAPOLIS CARS STILL IDLE

CHAUFFEUR IS FATALLY SHOT.

Indianapolis, Nov. 4.—The third day of the strike of employees of the traction company ended with no attempt to move the cars, which have stood idle in the barns since last week. Charges that partisan politics caused the police to fail to give the traction company sufficient protection to run its cars were made by candidates for office at today's election, while an effort of Sheriff Portteus, a Democrat, to swear in 200 citizens as deputies resulted in the charge being made that he had summoned the men chiefly to keep active Republicans from working at the polls.

The strike situation was further complicated when a suit for the annulment and forfeiture of the traction company's franchise and the appointment of a receiver for the company was filed in the circuit court. The suit was filed by Attorney Albert C. Pearson, acting as a taxpayer, and alleges that the company by its failure to operate cars for the last three days has violated its franchise contract with the city. The summons in the suit was made returnable Nov. 18.

After a day in which numerous minor riots were reported, Thomas Carlton, a chauffeur, was shot and fatally wounded while watching a crowd of sympathizers making an attack on the Louisiana car barns, where strike breakers are housed.

Bruised by Missiles.

President Todd of the traction company, Superintendent J. J. Mahoney and Martin Hyland, superintendent of police, were bruised by missiles near the Tombs prison, and later, Mahoney was attacked while passing the state house and forced to take refuge in a street car to escape a shower of bricks, and until mounted police cleared the state house lawn.

Four policemen refused to mount the car platforms to protect nonunion men. President Todd announced no effort would be made to move cars until the nonunion men were assured of ample protection.

Twelve arrests were made from the crowds that flocked about the cars. The majority of the prisoners were charged with inciting to riot and throwing stones.

SAYS TRANSLATION IS WRONG

World Peace Promoter Asserts Christ Is Misquoted.

St. Louis, Nov. 4.—R. M. Langdon-Davies of London, who represents the Garton foundation for the promotion of peace, and who is touring America under the auspices of the American Association for International Conciliation, told the members of the St. Louis City club that the famous utterance of Jesus, "I came not to bring peace, but the sword," was a wrong translation.

He repeated the Greek words of the original text, then said they should be translated:

"I came not to bring peace, but division."

The wrong translation, he said, often had been quoted approvingly by advocates of militarism.

Trinidad, Colo., Nov. 4.—Final preparations were made by Adjutant General Chase for another expedition to Ludlow, for the purpose of seizing the arms and ammunition of the strikers of the Ludlow tent colony. At a conference at that place with John R. Lawson, General Chase pointedly advised the union leader to use the utmost diligence in securing the weapons which he knew had been in the possession of the miners recently. Twenty-six weapons, including twenty rifles, were turned over to General Chase by Lawson.

Philadelphia Taxi Drivers Strike.

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—A general strike of taxicab drivers began here. The strikers count on the fact that the grand opera season has opened and that it is election day to make the strike especially effective. Leaders of the local union, which recently demanded that the drivers be paid $2.50 a day instead of 20 per cent of the gross receipts of their cars, ordered the men out after the demand had been refused.

Printed on the front of every official time table which goes to Wabash employes are two large circles, "SAFETY ALWAYS." Printed on the back of every official time table are these words: "SAFETY should be the first consideration of every employe." It is a constant admonition to every Wabash trainman, for the protection of every Wabash traveler. Beginning with the human factor, the Wabash surrounds its travelers with every mechanical safeguard known to modern railroadism: Steel equipment; automatic electric block signals; miles of double track; heavy rails and substantial roadbed; telephone dispatching, etc.
